Directors Set Policy For Off-Campus Activities

Heading the agenda at the last meeting of the Board of Directors, Tuesday afternoon, was the new policy that all subsidiary organizations to the board must have their minutes read and approved by the board.

A letter has been sent to all organizations pledging money for the dedication drive, thanking them and reminding them that the money is payable between October 4 and 8.

Also on the agenda was the new policy concerning off-campus actiivties using the name of the college.

The name of San Francisco State College may be used in connection with any off-campus activity when a group of students:

1—Has submitted a formal petition, approved in advance, by the office of the Associate Dean of Students (activities) and the Administrator of Student Affairs.

2—Has submitted a written statement of its willingness to assume responsibility for the conduct of the affair, which statement must be signed by the president or recognized leader of the group, the faculty sponsor and eight other members of the group. The statement of the responsibility reads as follows: "We assume the responsibility both stated and implied, to conduct this affair in such a way that it will not jeopardize the good name of the college."

The committee that submitted this policy report to the board consisted of Dean Wells, Carol Cunklin, Bernis Johnson, Jerry Lucey and Bea Lundgren.

Judicial Council Plans Revealed

In a meeting of the Judicial Council here Tuesday afternoon, many new organization plans were discussed and adopted. With the feeling that the activity hut did not lend to the dignity of the council, a new meeting place was sought. Dean Bergstresser suggested they meet in President Leonard's conference room.

Regulations for procedure were adopted in view of the fact that the old ones were somewhat outdated.

During the course of the meeting Mary Courtney, chairman of the Judicial Committee, was appointed as council recorder.

Women's Faculty Club to Meet

On Friday, October 1, at 2 o'clock, the Women's Faculty Club of San Francisco State College will give a tea honoring new faculty women, and the wives of new faculty men. The meeting will be held in the Little Theater of the Creative Arts building, followed by tea in the Faculty Dining room.

There will be child care in room 16 of the Lake Merced School on Tapia and Arballo streets. .

Caves to Cover Europe in Absence

Dr. Floyd Cave of the Social Science Department is on sabbatical leave of absence until February, 1955, his brother, Dr. Roy Cave, has announced. Dr. Floyd Cave left San Francisco State earlier this year and plans to return by the beginning of the spring semester.

"The last heard from Dr. Floyd Cave was when he and his wife had completed a tour of Scotland, England and Wales. The traveling Caves purchased an English Consul Ford during this tour. During their stay in Europe, the Caves plan to travel extensively throughout Spain and Yugoslavia," Dr. Roy Cave said. "In these countries," he continued, "Floyd will be able to study first-hand the workings of a totalitarian government."

Poet W. H. Auden Speaks Oct. 11

Mr. W. H. Auden, British-American poet, will give a poetry reading on October 11, in Concert Hall, as part of Dedication Week events.

Mr. Auden, under the auspices of the Poetry Center, will also have a reading for the general public on Thursday, October 7, at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

S. F. State Story Televised

Broadcast and Luncheon To Highlight Program

Highlighting the Dedication Week ceremonies will be the presentation of the San Francisco State Story on the award-winning television program, "Success Story," Tuesday, October 12.

Bay Area viewers will become acquainted with the history of the old and new campus, the standards of the college and opportunities available to students. The program has the largest viewing audience in the Bay Area. It wlil be telecast in the Creative Arts and Art and Industry buildings at 8 p. m., KGO-TV, Channel 7.

Officially opening Dedication Week, the "Standard Hour" broadcast will originate in the main auditorium and will feature Conductor Pierre Monteux, Soprano Dorothy Kirsten and Tenor Jan Peerce.

The St. Francis Hotel will be the scene of a huge Civic luncheon sponsored by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday, October 13.

Formal dedication exercises will begin at 10 a. m. Saturday, October 16, with the academic procession to Cox Stadium. The main dedication address will be given by Ordway Tead, an outstanding figure in the business world and in the field of higher education. Students and their families are invited to attend these exercises as well as tour the campus.

Various other events scheduled for the week will include a special Columbus Day Italian program, the Faculty Women's Club reception, and a conference on higher education coordinated by Joseph Axelrod. It is anticipated that Mayor Robinson will declare the week of October 10-16 as San Francisco State College Dedication Week.

Living Positions Open

Have you become discouraged looking for a place to live?

Mrs. Bagnall, in charge of the housing service for students, tells us she has lots of positions listed in her office for girls to work for room and board and a small salary.

Apply Administration building, Room 168, Mrs. Bagnall.

Dignitaries Fete Campus For Dedication Week

Elmer E. Robinson, Mayor of San Francisco, will proclaim the week of October 10 through 16 as "San Francisco State College Dedication Week," next Monday, it was announced by college officials. Morning ceremonies will be conducted in the Mayor's office.

To coincide with the week-long campus festivities, the official "Dedication Week" declaration will allow all of the city's citizens to demonstrate their feelings toward the local college.

An educational institution for 55 years in San Francisco, State College was long situated at Haight and Buchanan streets. With this October dedication, the college will have completed, in fact and in spirit, the "Big Move" from the old Buchanan campus to the spacious, modern educational plant of today.

In appreciation of the fact that San Francisco State College enjoys a nation-wide reputation for its teacher's program, Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States of America, sent greetings and congratulations to Dr. J. Paul Leonard, president of San Francisco State, on the event of the campus' dedication.

Hundreds of dignitaries will grace the campus next week in expectation of the dedication. A special issue of the Golden Gater will carry a linguistic and visual account of the college, its history, its esthetic expanse, and its intellectual achievements, along with the practical relationship between the college in the community and American commerce, business, and government.

Talent Needed For Rallies

The rally board is interested in finding all available talent for rallies. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors who can sing, dance, act, or do any form of entertainment are needed for important events.

Auditions will be held today (October 1) and Tuesday, October 5, from 3 to 5 p. m. in CA 119. If you can't make the auditions on the arranged dates please contact Dan Caldwell in Hut T-1, entertainment chairman of the rally board.

Singers are requested to bring their own music but the accompanists will be furnished.

Included in the plans this year will be high school and college rallies and camp shows.

Request Students Park in Area Behind School

Student parking on the campus will be permitted only in the large parking lot near the new athletic field and baseball diamond with an entrance from Lake Merced boulevard. This is the only place in the entire area where students can park. The parking lot in front of the Science building on 19th avenue and the lot adjacent to the library building on Holloway avenue have been reserved for employees of the college. Students are not permitted to park in these areas.

Two-hour parking has been instituted in Park Merced including the south side of Holloway avenue. The streets in Park Merced will be heavily patrolled by traffic officers who will enforce the two-hour time limit. All students are requested, therefore, to park in the parking lot on Lake Merced boulevard.

200 Tickets for 'Standard Hour'

There will be 200 tickets available to students for the Standard Symphony broadcast on Sunday, October 10. Because of the limited number of tickets available, the following system has been devised to distribute the tickets.

On Monday, October 4, Tuesday, October 5, and Wednesday, October 6, students may sign up for tickets in the Associated Students business office, Hut T-1. Two hundred names will be drawn from the hat and a list will be made available in the business office. The students may then pick up their tickets at CA box office.

Art Club Shows Films Oct. 6 and 7

The Art Club will begin its Fall series of Art Movies with a showing three times next week of three movies in IA 109.

The three movies, which will be shown on October 6, 12 to 1 and 4 to 5, and on October 7, 12 to 1, are "Weegee's New York," made by the famous movie photographer Weegee, "Pre-Columbian Mexican Art," and "Martin and Gaston."

"Pre-Columbian Mexican Art" is a color film on ancient art of Mexico from 3000 B. C. to the time of the Conquestidores. Masks, stone figures and ceramics of the civilization are shown in terms of their cultural significance.

"Martin and Gaston" is an animated film which make use of imaginative drawings by French school children. A spontaneous and highly original motion picture technique makes this film a unique and charming piece of art photography..

Treasurer Holmes Presents Program to BOC Members

Associated Student Body Treasurer LeVell Holmes introduced a new education program to the Board of Control members at their September 23 meeting.

Holmes' plan will bring members of the faculty to the board meetings each week to explain the problems and organization of their divisions and then to conduct a tour through their departments for the board members.

The thought, board members suggested, behind this action is: The only time most of the board members come in contact with the departments is during the time when the budget is being made out. Through this plan they will be able to see where the money is going.

The series was started by Coach Dan Farmer of the Men's Physical Education program.

Farmer explained the reasons why a large percentage of student body funds is given to athletics is that the students actually are the sponsors of all teams. The school has nothing to do with it; it is the students' program. He further pointed out that the college is in business with the state, for it allots thousands of dollars each year to help S. F. State continue on a full-scale program.

The state has paid $3,000,000 for our gym, athletic fields and equipment. It also will pay out an additional $100,000 this term for coaches' salaries, janitors, groundsmen, additional equipment, servicing and upkeep.

The $21,000 the student body puts into athletics goes into public relations, awards, game uniforms, transportation of teams, hotels, meals and insurance.

The meeting then adjourned for Farmer to take the board on a tour of the men's gym to see the equipment the ASSFSC funds bought. Chairman Holmes called the meeting back to order after the tour to discuss two pieces of business.

It was moved and passed to allot $40 to the business office to pay the cashier in the registration line.

The Humanities Club received $51.50 for expenses this semester. They also requested backing for their magazine to be printed this fall. This measure was laid on the table pending presentation of a proposed dummy to the board.—L. D.

The Creative Arts

. . . . By ROBERT M. KLANG

This week these columns dedicate themselves to giving a brief outline of a few of the activities the S. F. State Drama Department is planning for this semester. Before we get involved in a sketch of the department's program we must first mention the effect on this program of a recent ASSFSC Board of Control action: the seemingly arbitrary slashing of the Creative Arts Division's '54-'55 budget request. This budget request cut, whether arbitrary or, as the case could have been, carefully calculated necessarily means that the Drama Department will be working with much less money this semester than expected. Therefore, the quantity and technical quality of productions this semester, or, more accurately, the whole school year, probably will not be what they could be.

'RICHARD III'

First on the Drama Departments' list of productions this semester is its return to the main auditorium of Shakespeare's great historical drama "King Richard III" during Dedication Week. "Richard" was presented during last Summer Session and we are told by knowing individuals, both on and off campus—we did not see last summer's "Richard"—that the show was an excellent dramatic presentation as well as a show having a terrific impact as far as spectacle is concerned. Director Jules Irving is currently taking those who are the Shakespearan drama's cast through rigorous rehearsals in preparation for opening night, October 15. The show will also be given on the following night and on October 22 and 23.

SECOND PRESENTATION

On November 11 the curtain in the Little Theatre will rise on the Drama Department's second major production of the fall semester. We cannot, however, tell the name of the play to be presented for at the time these words were set in type it was not decided by the Department what play will be given. But, we do know that under consideration are "Topaze," "Once in a Lifetime," and "The Royal Family." Richard Glyer will direct the play and it will run, after opening night, on November 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20.

"Mr. Popper's Penguins," a children's play, will be presented in the main auditorium at 2:30 p. m. on November 20. This children's show, which will be under the direction of Burdette Fitzgerald, will be taken before many child audiences throughout the city.

On the first of November, Jacqueline Ogg will begin rehearsing many State students for the Drama Department's December 9-11 production of Lyric Theatre. So far only half of the Lyric Theatre show is known. This half is Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti," which we think is one of the best modern musical satires on present-day American life yet created.

KQED Receives Award

KQED, the Bay Area's educational TV station, was the recent recipient of a $10,000 check from the Emerson Radio and Phonograph Corporation. KQED is the sixth non-commercial TV outlet to receive this award which goes to the first ten non-commercial statitons to go on the air. This award was presented as part of the Emerson $100,000 educational TV grant.

Mental Health Resumes Meetings

Last semester an attempt was made to form a Mental Health Association on campus. A number of students got together for a few preliminary bull-and-beef sessions to discuss the question of what students could do to help promote better health conditions on campus.

Helen Herrick and Pat Vaughn sparked the group. Dr. Arthur Foff of Language Arts Division and Dr. William Hohenthal of Social Science Division, acted as sponsors.

Some of the points considered were: What are the everyday tension problems of student life at State? Is there a need for a student group to study and advise on these problems? What concrete steps can a student group take to help alleviate them?

With these open questions still before them, the group expects to form again this semester. They hope to grow in size and expand their activities through widening student interest in the problems of everyday mental health on campus. Announcement of their first session will be made next week.

Smatter of Opinion

The following is the opinion of Mr. Stephen T. Davis and should not be construed as necessarily the opinion of the college, the Associated Students or the Golden Gater.

By STEPHEN DAVIS

It is repeatedly brought to our attention that this month San Francisco State College will be dedicated. Our first reaction is to ask, "To what?"

We have never felt that the limitations of this campus derived from its undedicated status; unless, of course, one takes advantage of the potential pun.

In what does the true dedication of a campus consist?

Not, we suggest, in a conclave of the academic elite, in canned speeches and Chamber of Commerce lunches, nor in a program resembling a hucksters' convention.

Unless the function of the collegiate organization has recently been changed by administrational memoranda, the ultimate criteria for determining the status of such an institution are the intellectual and creative achievements of its students, past and present.

The locus of "dedication" is the personality of each individual student, administrator, and faculty member.

The measure of that spirit is the quality of the plays, concerts, research programs, and cultural activities which those individuals, working with and for each other, make available to the general community.

Outstanding theatrical performances, such as that attempted this summer by the drama department; contributive participation in art and music conferences; a college paper of high creative and journalistic calibre; will do more to bring this campus to the appreciative attention of the state, and the nation, than any number of shrewdly organized dedication weeks. Without these things, a dedication YEAR would not suffice to make San Francisco State College more worthy of its tremendous facilities.

Dedication week without dedicated students is a farce. Dedicated students would be none the less so without Dedication Week.

Mary Courtney and Jack Lynch have been appointed Chesterfield campus representatives at San Francisco State.

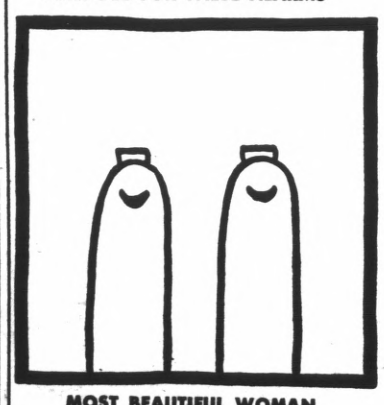
FIREPOLE FOR FALSE ALARMS



MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN TURKEY ACCOMPANIED BY VERY UGLY FRIEND

Want to pick up $25? Make up a Lucky Droodle and send it in. It's easy.

If you want to find out just how easy it is, ask Roger Price, creator of Droodles. "Very!" Price says. Better yet, do a Droodle yourself, like the ones shown here.

Droodle anything you like. And send in as many as you want. If we select yours, we'll pay $25 for the right to use it, together with your name, in our advertising. We're going to print plenty—and lots that we don't print will earn $25 awards.

Draw your Droodles any size, on any piece of paper, and send them with your descriptive titles to Lucky Droodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure your name, address, college and class are included.

While you're droodling, light up a Lucky—the cigarette that tastes better because it's made of fine tobacco . . . and "It's Toasted" to taste better.

EDITORIAL

Is Dedication Representative Of All San Francisco State?

We would like to advance a cautious bit of criticism on the subject of the coming Dedication Week. We would like those in charge of the affair to think over what we have to say, and consider its worth.

Students are necessarily a part of the college, though a transient part. The administration and faculty are of a more permanent nature and thus some are inclined to consider the students, and student activities, as something slightly below eye level.

The administrators and the faculty have apparently thought of the students in their plans for dedication of S. F. State, but they have considered them only as people useful to carry out the smaller tasks assigned to them, and not as co-planners of the week.

It is unfortunate that the planners and executors of the upcoming dedication saw little or no use in consulting the students to any great extent in the dedication of a college composed of administration, faculty and students alike.

As a result of the one-sided organization of Dedication, the week has taken on a veneer far from representative of the college as a whole. It has become something more along the lines of an advertising campaign for a new detergent, rather than a sober rededication of the college on the principles of higher education in its fullest sense.

Dedication of any college, and especially S. F. State with its largely competent faculty, should strive toward enriching the growth of community relations, should attempt the broadening and deepening of academic inquiry. A slick commercial campaign of press release and publicity can effect little along these lines. After a tremendous burst it will subside and a Dedication in its true sense will disappear with it.

All of us wish to bring our college to the attention of others, but we would like those who visit S. F. State the week of October 10-16 to look beneath the surface of the television programs and the flowery speeches and examine the real meaning of the dedication of San Francisco State College. We hope that they can see through the garish finish and discover what this college really represents.

S. F. State Tries for Third Win Tonight at Davis

State's unbeaten gridders will be looking for their third straight win tonight against the Cal Aggies at Davis.

Aggie Coach Will Lotter has been drilling his team for a month, now, and in practice the Blue and Gold squad looked very impressive. However, last week while the Golden Gators were trimming the Nevada Wolfpack, 39-19, the Cal Aggies were being squashed by the University of California Ramblers by a score of 35-6.

CONFERENCE GAME

Cal Aggies represents State's first Far Western Conference foe. The Nevada game last week was only a practice tilt; the State-Nevada game will be played in San Francisco on October 29. Last year, State not being a member of the F. W. C. then, the two teams did not clash. However, the Gators defeated Santa Barbara last year, while the latter won out over Cal Aggies.

The California Aggies are blessed with a sturdy and well experienced line. On the ends they feature two veterans, Don Donsing and Duane Damron. At tackles, Dick Heringer, along with Mike Hill or Marty Fineman will probably start. Ray London and Tom Parker are the guards, backed up by Charles Synold. Bob Warren is expected to start at center.

AMPLE BACKFIELD

In the backfield, the Aggies have ample material. Paul Clary should start at left half, although Titcomb is pushing him for the berth. Reynolds and Lewis alternate at right half with Johnson at full. Craig James is the quarterback.

State will use its same ultra-explosive eleven that it used against Nevada last week. Dick Ellis should be ready to hit the air lanes with receivers such as Jim Boggan and George Wehner. Halfbacks Bremmond and Nave will be packing the pigskin with hopes of burning up yardage. "Butch" Storm rounds out the backfield. Up front between the ends, such stars as Dan Logue, Jess Jones, Larry Conover, Ray Nonella, and Floyd Peters should be keeping the Aggies at bay.

Old Gator Mascot Makes Headlines

By LEROY PACINI

Big Baggo, State's 6-year-old baby alligator, is currently the big problem child of publicity man Frank "Bow Tie" Walsh. The living symbol of the school is already threatening to gather more local and national headlines than the entire Gator football team.

MYSTERIOUS PAST

In a few short weeks, the South American prodigal has already grown in mythical proportions with his mysterious past and wild escapades. He has performed feats which heretofore were believed possible only of an Aesop character.

Already, there are several Big Baggo biographys circulating about. Among other things, our dashing, devil-may-care senor has snapped muzzles, chased football players and girl yell leaders, assaulted would-be handlers with his powerful tail, and in general, has been playing it strictly "grandstand."

REFUSED VISA

His most recent escapade took place just before the State-Nevada game. At first scheduled to fly with the players to Reno, he was soon refused a visa by the airlines, who feared for their stewardess, and by Wolfpack higher-ups who had heard rumors that Big Baggo attacks officials who blow whistles on his team.

As in the case of other athletic greats, it will soon become difficult to distinguish between fact, fiction and Big Baggo. But on thing is certain. However mysterious his deep, dark past, Big Baggo must certainly have a little ham in him.

Duncan Signs With Forty-Niners; Returns to Professional Football

Maury Duncan, a lad who has almost become a legend in the annals of S. .F. State football history, answered a call this week from the San Francisco 49ers to fill a vacancy in the local pro team's quarterback slot.

This vacancy was created when Arnold Galiffa, famed for his play with the West Point eleven and, more recently, the New York Giants, suffered a broken hand in last week's game. With Galiffa out of the picture for at least the next six weeks, the full weight of the QB chores fell upon the shoulders of Y. A. Tittle; a fact which caused a bit of concern among the higher echelon of the 49er organization. This concern stemmed not from the fact that Tittle was incapable, but rather from the knowledge that in the rugged business of professional football it just isn't healthy to pin all your hopes on any one man.

The former Gator quarterback is far from unfamiliar with the ins and out of professional football. After achieving the distinction of being one of the leading passers among the nation's small colleges for two years here at State, Duncan jumped into big time football early this season via the Los Angeles Rams. Following this he was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers. Reports that Uncle Sam was about to take an active part in Mr. Duncan's future caused the Steelers to release him at which time Maury returned to State College to continue his studies.

Oddly enough, Duncan gained the respect of the 49er big-wigs while playing against them. During an exhibition game in Tucson, at the start of the season, he completed six out of ten passes for a .600 average in any book. Although they won the game the 49ers took time to jot down the name of the guy with the educated arm. They remembered that name when Galiffa was sent in for repairs.

Announcement

All on and off campus rallies must first meet the approval of the rally board of the Activities Committee.

This means that if any students or organizations want to put on a rally, the approval of Jack Cooper and his rally board must definitely be had.

FOOTBALL THROUGH THE AGES

The football frenzy is upon us. But let us, in the midst of this pandemonium, call time. Let us pause for a moment of tranquil reflection. What is this game called football? What is its history? Its origins? Its traditions? These are not idle questions, for when we have the answers we will appreciate even more fully, enjoy even more deeply, this great American game of football.

First of all, to call football an American game is somewhat misleading. True, the game is now played almost exclusively in America, but it comes to us from a land far away and a civilization long dead.

Football was first played in ancient Rome. Introduced by Julius Caesar, it became one of the most popular Roman sports by the time of Nero's reign. The eminent historian Sigafoos reports a crowd of MMCLDDXVIII people at the Colosseum one Saturday afternoon to see the Christians play the Lions.

With the decline of the Roman empire football fell into disuse. The barbaric Huns and Goths preferred canasta. However, by the Twelfth Century A.D. football had emerged from its twilight and risen to its rightful place in the firmament of European pastimes. The eminent historian Sigafoos reports that the whole continent was in the grip of wild excitement in the year 1192 when the Crusaders, under Freddie Barbarossa, journeyed all the way to Damascus to play the Saracens in the Fig Bowl game. The Crusaders squeaked through, 23 to 21, on a field goal by Dick Coeur de Lion in the closing seconds of the game.

October 21, 1512, will ever remain a red letter day in the history of football. On that day Leonardo da Vinci, who has often been called "The Renaissance Man" because of his proficiency in a hundred arts and sciences, was painting a picture of a Florentine lady named Mona Lisa Schultz. "Listen, Mona baby," he said as she struck a pose for her portrait, "I keep telling you—don't smile. Just relax and look natural."

"But I'm not smiling," she replied.

"Well, what do you call it?" he said.

"Gee, I don't know," said Mrs. Schultz. "It's just an expression, kind of."

"Well, cut it out," said The Renaissance Man.

"I'll try," she promised.

And try she did, but without success, for a moment later the artist was saying to her, "Look, Mona kid, I'm not gonna ask you again. Wipe that silly grin off your face."

"Honest to goodness, The Renaissance Man," said she to him, "it's no grin. It's just the way I look."

"Well, just stop it," said Leonard testily and turned away to mix his pigments.

When he turned back to Mona Lisa and saw the smile still on her face, he became so enraged that he seized the nearest object—a casava melon, as it happened—and hurled it at her with all his strength. Showing great presence of mind, she caught the melon and ran with it from the studio until The Renaissance Man's temper should cool.

This was, of course, the first completed forward pass.

Another date dear to the hearts of all football fans is September 29, 1442. It was on this date, according to the eminent historian Sigafoos, that a sixteen year old lad named Christopher Columbus tried out for the football team at Genoa Tech. He failed to make the team because he was too light. (He weighed at that time only 12 pounds.)

And why, you ask, is this date—September 29, 1442—so dear to the hearts of all football fans? Because young Columbus was so heartbroken at not making the team that he ran away to sea. And if that hadn't happened, he never would have discovered America. And if Columbus hadn't discovered America, the world never would have discovered tobacco. And if the world hadn't discovered tobacco, football fans never would have discovered Philip Morris—which, as every fan knows, is the perfect companion to football. As Sigafoos, the eminent historian, says, "Land's sakes, I can't even imagine football without Philip Morris. I'd sooner go to a game without my raccoon coat than without my neat, rich tobacco-brown snap-open pack of mild vintage Philip Morris Cigarettes which come in regular or king-size at prices young and old can afford. Land's sakes!"

The end of football in Europe came with the notorious "Black Sox Scandal" of 1587, in which Ed Machiavelli, one of the Pisa mob, paid off the University of Heidelberg Sabres to throw the championship game to the Chartres A. and M. Gophers. It was a mortal blow to football on the continent.

But the game took hold in the American colonies and thrived as it had never thrived before. Which brings us to another date that remains evergreen in the hearts of football lovers: December 16, 1771.

On that date a British packet loaded with tea sailed into Boston harbor. The colonies had long been smarting under the English king's tax on tea. "Taxation without representation," they called it, and feelings ran high.

When on December 16, 1771, the British ship docked at Boston, a semi-pro football team called the Nonpareil Tigers, coached by Samuel (Swifty) Adams, was scrimmaging near the harbor. "Come, lads," cried Swifty, seeing the ship. "Let's dump the tea in the ocean!"

With many a laugh and cheer the Nonpareil Tigers followed Swifty aboard and proceeded to dump the cargo overboard in a wild, disorganized and abandoned manner. "Here now!" called Swifty sharply. "That's no way to dump tea overboard. Let's get into some kind of formation."

And that, fans, is how the "T" formation was born.

The Golden Gators went to town last Saturday night, downing Nevada's Wolves, 39-19. State's rooters also went to town, as they took the city of Reno by storm, as they did last year. This reporter understands that traffic was stopped for an hour in front of Harold's Club by a group of enthusiastic State boosters. A round of yells and songs, under the direction of Ralph Kermoian and State's popular yell leading troop, kept the football faithful and passers-by entertained.

NEW SOCCER OPPONENT

The Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference, of which State is a member, added one new team to its ranks this fall. That new member team is San Jose State, who dropped out of the conference n 1942. Prior to that time, the Spartans had won four straight championships. Member teams other than San Francisco State and San Jose are: Santa Clara, University of San Francisco, City College of San Francisco, California and Stanford. USF's Dons are the defending champions.

SAN SEBASTIAN REPLACED

Archie San Sebastian, mythical character around the men's gym last year, has been replaced. Somehow, over the long summer months, Archie disappeared, but his absence won't be too noticeable as his shoes have been filled. The new character is Ernie Bartels, a graduate of Yale in 1938. Bartels, according to a famous writer who was once sports editor of the Golden Gater, is a tip-top, yipsee-pipsee, hunky dory, and all that rot, all-around athlete. At Yale he played center (on the bench) on the Yale football team, and left-out in baseball. Ernie will not play ball for State, however, because of financial difficulties.

Last week, the Professor's football picks went for 28 correct and seven wrong, or 80 per cent accurate. Stanford, Penn State, Colgate, Dartmouth, South Carolina, Virginia Tech, and Florida pulled the surprises of the week end. This week's predictions are as follows:

S. F. State over Cal Aggies

Alabama over Vanderbilt
TCU over Arkansas
Michigan over Army
Baylor over Miami
Yale over Brown
Cal over Ohio State
Pinceton over Columbia
Colgate over Holy Cross
Rice over Cornell
Navy over Dartmouth
Duke over Tennessee
Fresno State over L. A. State
Georgia over Texas A&M
Georgia Tech over SMU
San Jose State over Idaho
Illinois over Stanford
Indiana over C.O.P.
Iowa over Montana
Nebraska over Iowa State
LSU over Kentucky
UCLA over Maryland
Michigan State over Wsconsin
Mississippi over Villanova
Miss. State over Ark. State
North Carolina over Tulane
USC over Northwestern
Notre Dame over Purdue
Texas Tech over Okla. A&M
Penn State over Syracuse
Texas over Washington State
Washington over Ore. State
Cincinnati over Tulsa

Gators Swamp Nevada University In Season Opener

Nevada University's hopes of taking the step into really big-time football were squelched last Saturday when the Wolfpack wandered into a mass of slow-starting but determined Alligators in Reno.

An estimated 6000 spectators were on hand to witness a succession of second-half touchdowns that finally totalled up to a 39-19 victory for State.

NEVADA SCORES FIRST

Despite the lopsided score Nevada had things pretty much their own way through the first half. Ed Jessie, Nevada back, took command of the Pack when he uncorked a 27-yard pass to Don Jones for the first score of the day. Later in the half Jessie did it again, this time in the form of a 14-yard toss to Frank Garcia.

State pulled an important chestnut out of the proverbial fire late in the first half. After forcing Nevada to punt, they scored on a pass from Hoot Ellis to Jim Boggan.

Boggan took it on the Nevada 10-yard line and carried it over. This play incidentally was an all or nothing effort for State for time had all but ceased to exist in the first half.

STATE EXPLODES

With the score standing at 13-7 going into the third period there occurred an explosion, reported by some to be of atomic size, which fairly turned the Nevada Wolfpack into a litter of stunned pups.

Hoot Ellis started the uproar early in the period by passing again, this time to George Wehner for 30 yards and a TD.

Then, after State had marched to the Wolfpack 5-yard line, Harry Bremmond took a handoff and plowed over for six. Dick Nave added his contribution to the cause next by scoring twice. His first tally caused him to scamper 19 yards and the second resulted from a two-yard dive.

In the fourth quarter, Jim Boggan stepped back into the limelight when he made the longest TD run of the day. He traveled 22 yards.

In the closing minutes of the game, Harry Bremmond did his best to add even more to the Gators collection of points when he raced an astounding 65 yards for what, to all outward appearances, was a score. A clipping penalty was marked off against the Gators, however, thus nullifying Bremmond's effort and leaving the final count at 39-19.

Water Polo Team Has 5 Lettermen

Norman Cady, Waly Macomber, Dan Matarangas, Bernie Selna and Ed Soderman are the five returning lettermen around whom Coach Hal Harden will build this year's water polo team.

These five are joined this year by 11 new men who have never played the game of water polo before. They are: John Dumas, Ben Elkus, Scott Farmer, Paul Larsen, Maurice O'Roke, Ed Sullivan, Mike Tarhanoff, Neil Vannucci, Jules Voerg, Bill Williamson, Charles Zettler. The coach put his men to work in practice sessions the first day of the semester.

No schedule of games has been made up yet, but it is expected that one will be released shortly after the October 1 meeting of the Northern California Water Polo Conference.

Coach Harden appealed to all able-bodied men on campus who think they might enjoy water polo, experienced or not, to come out for the team.

Magazine Asks for Original Fiction

"Sapiens," a socio-literary magazine published by several S. F. State students, is now accepting original writings in fictional prose. .

All articles should be no more than 1800 words in length and limited to a general San Francisco Bay Area character setting, the "Sapiens" said.

Manuscripts should be mailed immediately for consideration to: 1244 Russell St., Berkeley 2, care of "Sapien."

Interested students should phone THornwall 3-6890 for information. Students Dale Tussing and Mike Quihillalt, two of the backers of the magazine, added that "original, fictional writing is especially needed."

The entire magazine is a non-profit, student effort whereby apprentice writers and artists may find a quality format for the expression of their aesthic and intellectual experiences.

This is an informal group of students, who are financing and editing the magazine, and they have no official relationshp with the Associated Students, Inc., as such.

Because of arrangements with English printers the deadline for submission of manuscripts is Tuesday of next week. Any material received after that date will not be considered.

Art work, suitable for reproduction in silk screen or one color lithography, will also be accepted until the end of October. All contributors will be considered as submitting for publication only. No one will be paid.

The magazine will be produced in London on 70-pound machine coated paper with several color illustrations. Creative expression in prose and painting will be featured.

Factual documented stories, expressed in free prose, will comment on social problems of the Bay Area and intellectual questions of serious import. The first issue will be in December.

C. A. A. Prepares For Coming Semester

The Club Advisory Association met at 8 o'clock Thursday evening to organize for the coming semester. It was found that a quorum was not present so no official business could be taken care of.

Those present formed a committee of the whole and made a few recommendations to reorganize the a.sociatoin. The recommendations were based on the theory that the organization had grown too large and membership had gotten out of hand.

After the meeting had adjourned, however, it was found that a quorum had been present without the knowledge of the officers.

Library Changes Made

The college library has now made it possible for all books to become easily accessible to the students, according to Dr. Kenneth Brough, library director.

Located at the information desk are maps of all the library floors which contain directions to the information obtainable on each.

The library has also made available to the students a new type of fill-out card. The student writes the title, author and call number on the card and from the classification numbers on the back he is able to find the section of the library in which the book is located.

Social Workers' Activities Begin

To start this year's activities the San Francisco State Social Work Club recently attended a party hosted by the American Association of Social Workers.

Carmen Trasvina, president of the local group, has announced that the first meeting of the organization will be open to everyone interested in the field of social work. The main topics scheduled to be discussed are student scholarships, field trips to local agencies, social affairs and speakers for the year.

Concert Series Tickets

Student tickets for the 1954-55 Symphony Forum Concert Series will be on sale October 12, 14, 19 and 21, announced Blythe Theilen, Forum Concert representative.

Seasonal prices for students and faculty are: Balcony and Balcony Circle, $17.00; Dress Circle, Grand Tier and Orchestra, $22.50; Box Seats, $29.00.

Tickets can be obtained in the Creative Arts building.

Humanities Club Plans for Future

The Humanities Club met recently to plan the events of the coming year. The officers and advisors explained the purpose and the history to the new members that were present. Endeavoring to explore the field of art, literature and music they discuss most everything from politics, to philosophy, to art, to music.

To be wise is to have a good balance of club activities. That is the motto of the club. They used to go by the Greek name of Gamma Sigma Phi.

The club is planning to have programs open to the entire student body every two weeks or so, with regular meetings during the alternate two weeks. Humanities are planning to hold joint meetings with various on-campus organizations.
